

Enjoy classic Big Band sounds and more on Castleton green

This Tuesday, June 16, the Castleton green, next to the Castleton Federated Church, will be "swinging and rockin'" when the great tunes from the Big Band era fill the air! ENERJAZZ, an outstanding new "multi talented" collection of fantastic musical professionals, will blow into town at 7 p.m., and their "hot" musical instruments won't cool down for the rest of the evening. This is a must-see Castleton Concert on the Green event. Enerjazz is a collection of 18 of the best talented musicians in the state that have been assembled together in one band, to bring back the old standards and familiar songs. Plus, they also entertain everyone with current pop songs, playing many styles, such as bebop, Latin, rock, fusion, ballads, funk, and any other type of music that is thoroughly enjoyable.

They bring to life the great songs and arrangements of memorable musical greats such as Duke Ellington, Count Basie, Glen Miller, Woody Herman, Maynard Ferguson, Buddy Rich and Doc Severinsen, just to name a few.

They also bring back plenty

ENERJAZZ, an outstanding new "multi talented" collection of fantastic musical professionals, will perform Tuesday, June 16, at 7 p.m. on the green next to the Castleton Federated Church.

of other songs, like Davis Rose's — "The Stripper," "The Continental," "Moonglow," "Fascinating Rhythm" and current pop tunes. Many Enerjazz members are very recognizable and well known. They include:

Trumpet section — Pat Roberts, Dave McKenzie, Ken Cifone, and Greg Ellis.

Saxophone section — Peter Giancola, Harry Drum, Mike Lenox, Scott Lobdel, and Hank Vaughan.

Trombone section — Bill Brislin, Paul Sutherland, Todd Jonz, and Glenn Giles.

The rhythm section includes — Kent Baker, keyboard/director; Martha Welch, vocals; Ellen Sutherland, bass; Don Goodman, Guitar, and Rob Zollman, drums. The concert is free and open to the public. It performs rain or shine. Rain site is under the tent at Castleton State College. For further information, please call 802-271-2911.